

COLA Weekly

April 12, 2019

Congratulations to our Model United Nations team for continuing its tradition of excellence! For the 40th consecutive year, our team won top honors at the national conference in New York City on March 24-28. Competing with teams from 193 universities from around the world, our team was one of only 27 schools to receive an Outstanding Delegation award, the highest recognition possible. Wright State students won six Outstanding Position Paper awards and two peer-selected Outstanding Delegate in Committee awards. Read more about our Model UN team's recent success online.

Congratulations to Kathryn Meyer, history, who has received a highly-competitive Summer Stipend award from the National Endowment for the Humanities. This NEH award is in support of her project, "Air Manchuria," which is a study of a commercial airline established by the Japanese Imperial Army as they occupied China's Northeast provinces in 1932. The study discusses the use of commerce, leisure, and tourism in the process of state building.

Wright State recently launched this year's Campus Scholarship for Innovation Campaign \(CSIC\) with the theme of "For Our Students." Faculty, staff, and retirees may choose among Wright State's more than 1,900 scholarships and programs when designating their gifts, and 100% of every gift goes where it is designated; no administrative fees are ever taken out of these gifts. If you are interested in supporting CSIC this year, visit www.wright.edu/csic.

Modern Languages hosted their annual Favorite Poems Friday on April 5 in the Millett Atrium. The event featured an array of poems presented by 30 language students. The students and faculty read poems in Chinese, French, German, Italian, Japanese, and Spanish, selected from their favorite authors, and/or shared original pieces with those in attendance.

This is a busy time of the year for the School of Music with many upcoming performances to enjoy. See below under "Upcoming Events" for a sample listing and go online to see a full calendar of music events.
