

COLA Weekly

NOVEMBER 16, 2018

The Dean's Student Advisory Board hosted a successful Murder Mystery in Millett that raised $500 for the COLA Emergency Fund. The audience, DSAB members, and volunteer actors all had a wonderful time searching for clues around the Millett Atrium, cross-examining the suspects, and figuring out who dunnit. A big thank you to DSAB, the actors, and to all who attended, participated, and donated to support COLA students. If you know students in need of assistance, please encourage them to fill out the Emergency Fund application.

Congratulations to Elizabeth Bourgeois, costume design, and her team of Wright State students and graduates, who took first place at the HighBall Halloween competition in Columbus. Their winning mythical costume featured a glittering gold gown with a towering snake-ringed headdress and a train of sequined snakes. This event has become the third largest fashion runway event in the country and the competition included designers from major fashion centers like New York City and Boston.

The COLA Professional Mentoring Program is running strong this semester with 27 mentor/mentee pairs. This is a wonderful opportunity for our sophomore, junior, and senior students to learn from an experienced business professional who can offer valuable insight and knowledge about what to expect as they enter the workforce. We are accepting additional mentee applications for Spring semester through Friday, December 14. Please encourage your eligible students to apply.

Kudos to James Carter for winning the Best Empirical Article award from the Journal of Social Work and Education for his research with Audrey Begun, professor of social work at Ohio State University. Their research, titled Career Implications of Doctoral Social Work and Student Debt Load, found that three quarters of all social work doctoral students expected to graduate with some level of debt. James and his co-author were honored for their work at the yearly Council of social Work Education Membership Meeting last week.

The Liar opens in the Creative Arts Center's Herbst Theatre on Friday, November 30 and runs through Sunday, December 9. This production features a pathological liar and his bumbling servant, a beautiful, young woman and her saucy maid, identical twins, and a scheming father who all meet in Paris; what could go wrong? Tickets go on sale online on November 25 at 10:00 a.m.

This week's featured DSAB member is Anna Helmig. Anna is a first-year graduate student in the public history program. She graduated from Wright State with a B.A. in history and religious studies in Spring 2018. Outside of school, Anna enjoys hiking, reading, fencing, and visiting museums. After she graduates with her M.A., she hopes to work in a museum, national park, or archive and share her passion for history with the public.

I hope you will take some time next week to enjoy Thanksgiving with friends and family. We'll send out the next COLA Weekly on November 30.
