This plan outlines a four-year path to graduation. You are expected to satisfy all "success marker" courses, grades, and GPAs as specified. For part-time students and students needing to complete background material, this schedule represents the order in which courses should be taken. This suggested plan to four-year graduation does not replace regular advising appointments. Some course offerings may change.

Notes

* Begin Term One at your level from the Placement Test, following the sequence each term.

Students who would like to be licensed to teach Spanish in K-12 schools should take the following courses of electives to prepare for the M.Ed: ED 2600, 2650, 2700, 2750, and EDS 2900. An application for field placement is required.

Program Description

The Department of Modern Languages is committed, as ever, to providing a fresh and varied program of study, offering stimulating courses centered upon such subjects as literature, film, business, poetry, law enforcement and social work, contemporary culture and cuisine, and other aspects of the diverse Hispanic world that we study through language. The members of the faculty take pride in their work as teachers and mentors, and we look forward to each and every new incoming student!

No course of study in modern languages is complete without the opportunity to study or spend time abroad. Of course not everyone can study abroad, but we encourage all who can to do so. The university has a variety of foreign study programs in Spanish-speaking countries: Chile, Costa Rica, Puerto Rico, Spain; these can differ in length of time (two- or three-week Ambassador Programs led by Wright State Spanish professors; one and two semester programs) and some can be more subject specific. Prospective and current students can get a good overview of what is available by looking at the University Center for International Education website. Our students are also actively involved on campus in the Spanish Club, tutoring, and Spanish immersion days, and off campus participating in internships, service learning, and other leadership opportunities with organizations serving the Latino community.
